

The Present
by Claire Bennet

Life was good
among the stars.
Now all that remains
is a fading sun
and the flowers
that come and go
petals falling, one by one.
That warm starlight seems so far away.
Where do we go from here?
Where do we go from here?